Jeff Kirk Named EHS Manager of TradeMark Nitrogen

TAMPA, Florida (December 1, 2012) – TradeMark Nitrogen, a US manufacturer of liquid nitrogen products, has named Jeff Kirk to the company's EHS Manager position. Today, Jeff joins the organization, responsible for maintaining and managing day-to-day health, safety, emergency response, environmental compliance at the facility.

"Jeff is a great addition to our team and we are excited to have him join us," said TradeMark General Manager Mike Barry.

Jeff has over 10 years of EHS (Environmental Health & Safety) experience. He is a member of the American Society of Safety Engineers. He is also certified as a Hazardous Material Manager and an OSHA trainer and forklift and confined space operator.

Jeff is looking forward to this position. He said, "I am looking for an organization where my education and body of knowledge can be used to bring value to a growing company. I'm excited to be a part of the TMN team."
