TradeMark Nitrogen and Florida Fertilizer Agrichemical Association (FFAA) Recognize Cory Cofer

Crystal River, Florida (January 24, 2014) – At the FFAA’s Winter Business Meeting last month at the Crystal River Plantation, Cory Cofer was recognized for his hard work and dedication to Florida Agriculture and the Citrus Industry with a scholarship to assist him with his continuing education at Florida Southern College.

After earning his GED and working for his dad’s business, Southeastern Ag Service, Cory decided that he wanted to get a college degree. With the idea that he wanted to be a firefighter or a paramedic, Cory pursued his A.A. degree with an emphasis in pre-med studies. He completed the EMT program and graduated from Indian River State College in 2012 all while working part-time for his father’s company.

In the spring of 2013, Cory enrolled in classes at Florida Southern College and is currently pursuing a degree in Citrus with the goal of becoming a Certified Crop Advisor and consulting for his dad’s company. In Florida’s only bachelor program for a degree in Citrus, Cory has maintained a 4.0 GPA and has hopes of attending graduate school after he completes his second major. “Without hesitation, we decided to give this award to Cory. We saw an opportunity to provide an extremely hard working individual the means to go after all of his educational goals,” Don Nelson, FFAA Scholarship Board.

Anyone who would like to apply for a scholarship in 2014 or who is looking for further information on other scholarships that the FFAA has provided should visit <http://www.ffa.org/scholarship.html>.
